A 次の英文を読んで、後の各問いに答えなさい。

ロンドンの下町で商人をしているScroogeは、金儲け一筋の商売を続け、思いやりのない人柄のためにひどく嫌われていました。ある年のクリスマスイブの夜、亡くなった共同経営者のMarleyの霊がScroogeを訪ね、Scroogeが改心して新しい人生を送ることができるように3人のGhosts（精霊たち）を訪ねることを伝えます。最初に訪ねてきたのは、過去のクリスマスの精霊でした。

When Scrooge woke up, it was very dark. A clock struck twelve! Scrooge suddenly remembered, "Another ghost is coming at one o'clock." ① He decided to lie awake until after one o'clock.

He waited and waited until at last he heard the clock strike one. At that moment, a light flashed in the room and the curtains round his bed flew open.

Scrooge sat up and found himself face to face with a ghost.

It was very strange. It was the height of a child but it looked like an old man. Its long hair was white like an old man's, but there were no lines on its face. It wore a white tunic and a bright jet of light beamed out from the top of its head. It held a big cap under its arm.

"Are you the ghost that Marley told me about?" asked Scrooge.

"I am!"

"Who are you?" Scrooge continued.

"I am the Ghost of Christmas Past."

"Why have you come?" asked Scrooge.

"For your happiness!" said the Ghost. "Now stand up and walk with me!"

When Scrooge saw the Ghost move towards the window, he was frightened. "I'm a ② mortal," said Scrooge. "I'll fall."

The Ghost laid its hand on Scrooge's heart and said, "You won't fall!"

③ As it spoke, they passed through the wall, and they stood on a country road. There was no mist or darkness now. It was a clear, cold, winter's day and there was snow on the ground.

④ "I'm surprised!" said Scrooge, as he looked about him. "I grew up here. I was a boy here!"

They walked along the road and Scrooge recognized every tree and every gate. Some ponies were moving towards them with boys on their backs. All these boys were happy and shouting to each other.

"They are only shadows," said the Ghost. ⑤ "They can't see us."

Scrooge knew all the boys, but why was he so happy to see them? Why was he happy when they called Merry Christmas to each other? What was Merry Christmas to Scrooge? "What good has it ever done me?" he asked himself.

"The school is not quite empty," said the Ghost. "One child is still there."

"I know," said Scrooge with a tear in his eye.

They soon came to a large, red-brick building. They entered the gloomy*1 hall and walked to a door at the back of the building. It opened before them, and they saw a long, empty classroom. At one of the desks a lonely boy was reading a book. Scrooge sat down on a bench and cried when he saw himself.

"I wish," Scrooge muttered*2, after drying his eyes with his sleeve, "but it's too late now."

"What's the matter?" asked the Ghost.

"Nothing," said Scrooge. "There was a boy singing a Christmas carol at my door last night. I would like to give him some money. That's all."

The Ghost smiled thoughtfully and said, "Let's see another Christmas!"

They left the school behind them, and a moment later they were in a busy city. It was Christmas time again but it was evening.

⑥ The Ghost stopped at a warehouse*3 door.

"Do you recognize this place?" asked the Ghost.

"I was an apprentice*4 here!" said Scrooge.

They went in. ⑦ Scrooge (あ sitting/い an old gentleman/う behind/え saw/お a high desk). "It's old Fezziwig!" he said, excitedly. Old Fezziwig rubbed*5 his hands and laughed. Then he called out in a rich, fat, cheerful voice, "Ebenezer! Dick!" Scrooge's former self*6, now a young man, came quickly into the room, with Dick, the other apprentice.

"Dick Wilkins!" said Scrooge to the Ghost. "There he is. We were very good friends."

"My boys!" said Fezziwig. ⑧ "No more work tonight. Christmas Eve, Dick. Christmas, Ebenezer! Let's close the shutters," cried old Fezziwig.

The two young men ran into the street and closed the shutters.

"Clear everything away, boys. Let's make some room for the party!"
